

The Evolution of International Trade Agreements

Jamie Hill

PhD

University of Amsterdam

Spui 21, 1012 WX Amsterdam, Netherlands

Riley Edwards

Dr.

University of Barcelona

Gran Via de les Corts Catalanes, 585, 08007 Barcelona, Spain

Rowan Lopez

Prof.

National University of Singapore

21 Lower Kent Ridge Rd, Singapore 119077

Abstract. This study examines the evolution of international trade agreements, focusing on their impact on global economic relations and policy-making. By analyzing historical trends and recent developments, the research provides insights into the role of trade agreements in shaping economic globalization and international cooperation.

Keywords: International Trade, Trade Agreements, Economic Globalization, Policy-making, International Cooperation

Introduction

International trade agreements have played a crucial role in shaping global economic relations, facilitating trade and cooperation between countries. This paper explores the evolution of these agreements, examining their historical context, development, and impact on policy-making. Through an analysis of key agreements such as the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) and the World Trade Organization (WTO), the research highlights the role of trade agreements in promoting economic globalization and international cooperation. The findings offer valuable insights into the complexities and challenges of negotiating and implementing trade agreements in a rapidly changing global landscape.

This is a preliminary version. To read the full version of the article, please purchase a subscription.

References

1. Алиева–Мамедова, Г. (2016). Азербайджан в начале XXI века (Азербайджан напочатку XXI століття). Гілея: науковий вісник, (110), 150-152.
2. Алиева–Мамедова, Г. (2021). Основные тренды внешней политики Турции в «Новой Большой игре». Вестник Бакинского Государственного Университета, №1, с.105-113.